Undergraduate students of this university may apply to the department during the designated application period after the second semester of their sophomore year to enroll in the professional master's program for working professionals. Upon approval by the department, they may begin taking graduate-level courses starting from the first semester of their junior year. However, they must obtain their bachelor's degree by the eighth semester (inclusive) and pass the university's general master's program entrance examination. Only after being admitted will they officially qualify as graduate students in the master's program.

2.本校學生於學士班修讀期間，修習碩士班課程達七十分以上，且該科目不計入學士班畢業學分者，至多可抵免三分之二（不含論文學分）。

Undergraduate students in their first semester of the third year who have outstanding academic performance in previous semesters may apply to the department to take courses from the Master's Program for Working Professionals within the application period. Upon approval by the department, they may begin taking graduate-level courses starting from the first semester of their fourth year. However, they must obtain their bachelor's degree by the eighth semester (inclusive) and pass the university's general master's program entrance examination to officially qualify as a master's student. (\*Original note: 24 credits  $\times 2/3 = 16$ ; it is recommended to start taking courses as early as the second semester of the third year.\*)

3.日間學制學生於學士班修讀期間修習碩士在職專班學分者，不需另繳學分費；進修學制學生於學士班修讀期間修習碩士在職專班學分者，則依進修部學士班收費標準收費。

Day-program students who take courses from the Master's Program for Working Professionals during their undergraduate studies do not need to pay additional tuition fees for those credits. However, continuing education (extension) program students taking such courses will be charged according to the tuition standards of the undergraduate continuing education program.
